Identify your water system

The type of water system within the home will affect your choice of product and the performance of the product.

Please refer to the diagrams opposite to help identify your water system.

For optimum performance we recommend our products are fitted to balanced water systems i.e. hot and cold supplies from the same source – e.g. gravity hot and gravity cold, not mixed water systems – e.g. gravity hot and mains cold.

Gravity fed systems

The water pressure on a gravity fed (often referred to as Low Pressure) water system is easily worked out.

The distance between the bottom of the cold water tank (located in the roof space) and the point at which the water exits the tap or shower head determines the water pressure.

Every 1m distance equates to 0.1bar pressure. The greater the distance, the greater the water pressure.

As illustrated, water pressure can be calculated as follows:

Upstairs bathroom shower,
1m = 0.1bar pressure

Upstairs bathroom basin taps,
2m = 0.2bar pressure

Downstairs cloakroom basin taps,
4m = 0.4bar pressure

Gravity fed (Low Pressure) systems

Your home has:

- A cold water storage tank in the loft
- A hot water cylinder (usually in an airing cupboard)
- No shower pump

Boosted gravity fed water system

Your home has:

- A cold water storage tank in the loft
- A hot water cylinder (usually in an airing cupboard)
- An additional booster pump

Mains high pressure water system

Your home has:

- An unvented cylinder with an expansion vessel (usually located in a garage or service cupboard)
- No cold water tank in the loft
- No shower pump

Combination boiler water system

Your home has:

- A combination boiler for hot water on demand (usually located in the kitchen)
- No storage tanks
- No shower pump

Save water,
save energy,
optimise performance

flow, stop and go®

Aerated stream

Aerators introduce air into the water stream to produce a larger and whiter stream that is soft to the touch, and non-splashing. All Flova taps include the aerated stream as standard.

Convert designer led products to low pressure:

Spray stream

When the flow rate is too low to produce an aerated stream, a spray device can be used to produce a miniature shower pattern to provide full coverage.

Look out for our low pressure accessory kits in the product listing, to convert medium pressure taps (aerated stream) to low pressure taps (spray stream).

Regulate flow to save water, energy and conform to water regulations.

Flow regulators

Water saving - flow regulators control the volume of water

Energy efficient - reduce water consumption

Conform to water regulations - ideal for new build properties to meet requirements

Resolve fluctuating pressure - regulates to ensure the same volume of water at each outlet

Our products can be regulated to a selected litre per minute by placing the Neoperl flow regulators into any half-inch shower hose or head and by replacing standard aerators in our taps.

For further information on how Neoperl can benefit you, please contact us.

We are proud of our partnership with Neoperl

Why choose Thermostatic?

Safety is paramount in a showering environment

Vernet Thermostatic Technology lies at the heart of Flova products, allowing for a safe and relaxed showering experience.

The world leading Vernet Thermostatic Cartridge delivers water to the desired temperature quickly and accurately. The temperature is kept consistent throughout the duration of the shower by compensating for fluctuations without user interference.

If the cold water supply fails, then this cartridge reacts immediately by shutting off automatically to avoid the risk of scalding.

Wall mounted made easy

We design our products with the installer in mind, ensuring ease of installation. An example of this is our eyeball fixing system, which includes brass eyeball fixings allowing for an accurate adjustment and a precise finish.

Use the template provided to align the fixings with the pipework, and adjust using the provided allen key. When the surface is complete, simply push the valve body onto the brass eyeball fixings and tighten the four securing grub screws.

Floor mounted made easy

We would like everyone to have the opportunity to enjoy our designer led bathroom products. With this in mind, we are able to make this possible by bringing you technology such as our floor standing manifold.

The result is an elegant yet simple solution that can be easily installed in any property.
